

I like playing with the abuse junkies but I have to admit that I was surprised by their prevalence in society. These guys have an interesting dilemma that they face. In modern day society, we made getting a dopamine high from abuse taboo. That means that if the abuse junkies are to hunt then they have to get around the taboos. They actually have no idea the value of honesty, patience, kindness, honor, dignity and respect but they do know something that allows them to present themselves as if they have these qualities. They know how to hunt prey so that they can get their dopamine and the first thing about hunting is the art of camouflage. To camouflage themselves it is a simple question of what does society find acceptable reasons for abusing their fellow man. That is an easy answer too. Society believes that in the act of slaying a monster it is OK to shed all rules regarding basic human decency. Not abusing others is on the list of immoralities that are tolerable to shed. If you want to get high abusing someone then you can do it all day long if you just make them a monster. Since the abusive people know nothing of honesty, patience, kindness, honor, dignity and respect making a monster of their prey is easy. That is how the abuse junkies work in modern society.

Currently, I am the target of every abuse junkie in the world. I don't need to fear death because I am the source of their high and they will never let the source of their dopamine die. I also have them entertained with stupid stuff like profanity and gestures. As long as this is true, I am pretty much untouchable although they have the power to destroy me. Their addiction will prevent them from dealing the final blow.

About three or four years back, I told them that they were never going to stop unless I hurt someone really badly or killed someone and that I was unwilling to do that. I figured that if I hurt an innocent really badly or killed an innocent then it would expose their camouflage as good people. I wanted to do that. Innocent people being hurt due to your actions isn't acceptable in society no matter what. This would remove their camouflage as the good guys. They said it was untrue that the only thing that would stop them were these measures but within about a month, they started saying that they would never stop abusing me. They are highly predictable. My study of the abuse junkies populating society has my estimate being that they are about 1 in 5. This means if you take the population of the earth then you have about 1 and a half billion of these people. This is a lot of people who have this trait.

Because I am against 1 and a half billion people who know nothing of honesty, patience, kindness, honor, dignity and respect but are also unwilling to lose their dopamine source, I have time but nothing else to fight my war. One of them told me of a lie she told to generate the camouflage that she needed to get her high without losing her status as a good person. At that moment I realized that I was face to face with the knowledge that I could never know what the world thinks I did.

My response to this was to show the world through social media everything that I have done, want to do, and who I am as a person. This was the only possible response to the abuse junkies' tactics. At this point my expectation is that discrediting the truth became the abuse junkies highest priority. While my expectation that providing the truth was that it would have no effect, it was the right thing to do. This way if there was a person who realized the truth even though they would be too afraid to face off against the abuse junkies, they would be able to curb their personal abusiveness thereby maintaining their morality as well as their honesty, patience, kindness, honor, dignity and respect.

Now the situation that I am currently faced with is what to do about 7.8 billion people under the spell of the abuse junkies. I can't abuse the none abuse junkies because they fell for a bunch of people pretending that I was a dragon when I wasn't a dragon nor am I dragon. One thing that will corrupt the non-abuse junkies is that they desire with all their hearts to slay dragons. When the world is faced with real dragons, this is a valuable good quality in a human but if you can manipulate the people who want to slay dragons into believing something is a dragon when it isn't then disaster strikes. This is what Osama Bin Laden did for a living. He took individuals who desired to slay dragons and convinced them that the west was a dragon. Hitler convinced Nazis that Jews were dragons and they weren't. Putin convinced his people that the people of Ukraine were dragons by calling them Nazis. The point being that improper identification of who is a dragon is the biggest danger that humanity faces because it takes 1 and a half billion people who lack honesty, patience, kindness, honor, dignity and respect and gives them the ability to sap the morality of the rest of the world's population.

This is what I currently face and I have to learn how to undo my being viewed as a DRAGON when I am not one nor, have I ever been one. If I can figure out how to undo the abusive people's tactics and document how I did it then the world will be able to see a detailed plan on how to identify when the abuse junkies are making fake dragon's while avoiding or even undoing their attempts at making fake dragons. This will help all of humanity but it is a daunting task. I am not sure if I can do it but allowing the information in this document to be publicly known is the first step in making the public aware of the greatest failing of humanity. That failure is not accounting for the behavior of the abuse junkies existence when people observe the world.
